

Volume 16

Issue – 2, August 2021

AFRICORN

AFRICORN is a recent listserv for African ornithology. Its main goal is to facilitate the dissemination of literature on African birds with a platform to discuss and share data on the biology of African birds. It also serves as a channel to relay opportunities like conferences, workshops, job openings etc.

Founded by Luke L. Powell, AFRICORN is inspired by Van Remsen's NEOORN listserv. With assistance from Tabe Tiku Regine Claire, AFRICORN works with more than 100 members who monitor around 55 scientific journals which publish on African ornithology. It aims to be a useful resource for birders, students, or anyone interested in African birds.

To join, please email AFRICORNmgmt@gmail.com with "subscribe" in the subject line.

AFRICORN logo by Kowo Cyril.